

27 January 2017

To whom it may concern,

- XL Precision Technologies Ltd is a manufacturing and service company based in Stockton on Tees, UK. The company purchases raw material, components and contracted services from an approved supplier list based in many global locations.
- XL Precision Technologies is fully committed to avoidance of working practices that could be considered as slavery and human trafficking, and aims to fully comply with the Modern Slavery Act 2015.
- XL Precision Technologies has carried out due diligence processes in relation to slavery and human trafficking in its business and supply chains, and will continue to review and monitor these aspects of its business.
- We guarantee that there is no risk of slavery and human trafficking taking place within our organisation, and believe there is very low risk of the same within our supply chain.
- All our staff and suppliers are informed of these risks and full training about slavery and human trafficking is available to our staff.

On behalf, and with the full approval, of the Board of Directors

Yours faithfully

Tom Graham
Managing Director